

School's back

It's the last day of the month and many parents across the UK will be breathing a sigh of relief as their bundles of joy return to the classroom. With Harrogate International Nursery Fair just six weeks away, it's also time to put your business hats back on and start planning your visit.

If you haven't already – be sure to register online (it's free!) and if you have new colleagues who might want to attend, pass on the link. It will make entry swift and easy rather than registering on-site.

Also, all information you require about the show is available on the website including a full exhibitor list. You can also search for suppliers of specific products giving you plenty of time to book appointments before your visit. You can also find information about how to get there, find accommodation and see the latest news from exhibitors and the products they will be presenting. www.nurseryfair.com

Good habits

Rainbow Designs will have a collection of wonderful toys and gifts for babies and infants available at Harrogate this year! Its Bedtime Cuddles and Stories collection brings to life much-loved storybook characters in classic yet contemporary infant toys which, coupled with the adored storybooks, help to establish good sleep habits. Ranges include Beatrix Potter's Peter Rabbit, Disney's Winnie the Pooh, Guess How Much I Love You, Elmer, We're Going on a Bear Hunt, and new additions for 2023: Maisy and Giraffes Can't Dance. Also available will be Disney's Mickey Mouse, The Very Hungry Caterpillar, Bagpuss and The Snowman ranges.
