Carrying on

Picking up a Gold for Best Potty-Training Products in 2020, My Carry Potty is excited to announce that it's expanding its range. Director and UK's toilet training expert Amanda Jenner, who works with children worldwide, believes toilet training is a very tough milestone for parent and child, so designing a range of products that are consistent in and out of the home makes the whole process stress-free. Introducing My Little Training Pants using cute characters will encourage children to make that transition from nappies to pants and most of all it's about making it fun!
